Introducing Magdalene Avila [redacted] born yesterday at 10.24pm; 8 pounds 2.5ozs, 50cm. After a brisk 4hr labour, both baby and mum are doing very, very well. Magdalene was perfectly calm, not a cry upon arrival, just content and contemplating the world with open eyes. She looks a lot like her older brother. The theme of the name is place. Part of what prompted our return to Aberdeen was a sense of the importance of place and feeling at home. 'Magdalene', of course, is fo... See more

Friends, I wanted to let you know that yesterday evening my mom died after a long struggle with the effects of a serious stroke which took place this past October. Both Stephanie and I were able to be with her yesterday and her death was peaceful, and in her final moments she was not suffering. For this we are grateful, as well as for the physicians and nurses who took such good care of her recently. I'm also personally thankful for Stephanie, who selflessly cared for Mom and her health concerns over the past few years.

A memorial service will take place at Tabernacle Presbyterian Church on [redacted] at 10 AM. Thank you for your concern and for the many prayers so many you have prayed for Mom over the past few years.

Who is Jesus?*
